The Funds are actively managed by DJE and, where a benchmark index is indicated, without reference to it. The presented charts and tables concerning performance are based on our own calculations according to the gross performance (BVI) method<sup>2</sup> and illustrate past development. Past performance is not indicative for future returns. The BVI method takes into account all costs incurred at the fund level (e.g. management fees), the net performance and the issue fee. Additional individual costs may be incurred at the customer level (e.g. custodian fees, commission and other charges). Model calculation (net): an investor wishes to purchase shares for Euro 1,000. With a maximum issue surcharge of 0.00% , he has to spend a one-off amount of Euro 0.00 when making the purchase. In addition, there may be custodian costs that reduce performance. The custodian costs are decided by your bank's price list and service charges

Investment Approach

The fund focuses on high-growth and innovative companies ("hidden champions") in the DACH region (Germany, Austria, and Switzerland). In terms of market capitalisation, the fund mainly invests in small- and mid-cap companies. We have an active bottom-up approach that primarily focuses on fundamental analysis of the companies. The fund invests in equities with high, sustainable, and stable earnings growth. The aim is an attractive risk-reward profile with low maximum drawdown and low volatility.

Portfolio structure

Model illustration of the growth opportunities

Source: DJE Kapital AG. For illustrative purposes only.

Opportunities

- + Small and medium-sized companies usually have a higher growth potential than large corporations.
- + With over 1,500 companies, the German-speaking region is the core region of the "hidden champions" (unknown market leaders).
- + The Mittelstand is the innovation, technology and economic engine of the D-A-CH region.
- + The D-A-CH region is characterised by a stable domestic economy, high legal security and export strength, spread across many sectors.

Risks

- Share prices can fluctuate relatively strongly due to market, currency and individual value factors.
- Small and medium-sized companies are traded less on the stock exchanges than large corporations. Their share prices can therefore fluctuate more than those of large companies.
- In addition to market price risks (equity, interest rate and currency risks), there are country and creditworthiness risks, e.g. a recession of the European economies.

Monthly Commentary

The European stock markets performed favourably in May. The main driver behind this positive development was once again market expectations that the doves could prevail over the hawks when it comes to monetary policy. The markets have priced in the announced reduction in key interest rates in the eurozone and are hoping for possible further interest rate hikes by the European Central Bank. However, inflation in the eurozone rose to 2.6% year-on-year (from 2.4% in April) and core inflation rose from 2.7% to 2.9%. In addition, the Purchasing Managers' Index for the manufacturing sector in the eurozone surprisingly jumped from 45.7 to 47.3 points. Although this means that the index is still below the threshold value of 50, from which an expanding economy is expected, the sharp rise was achieved even without an interest rate cut. In addition, wages in the eurozone rose, which will contribute to inflation in the long term. While there had been hopes of several interest rate cuts by the ECB prior to these figures, the markets have revised these expectations somewhat. The DJE - Mittelstand & Innovation rose by 0.85% in this market environment. The majority of sectors in the European investment region performed positively in May. The sectors that performed best in relative terms were industrials (overweight in the fund), technology (overweight in the fund) and financial services (overweight in the fund). The sectors that performed worst in relative terms were energy (overweighted in the fund), property (underweighted in the fund) and telecommunications (underweighted in the fund). Overall, the sector weighting in May therefore had a negative impact on the fund price performance relative to the benchmark index. The overweight was increased in the media and property sectors. The overweight was reduced in the healthcare, automotive manufacturers & suppliers, technology and drugstores & grocery shops sectors. The underweight was reduced in the Industrial Goods & Services, Chemicals and Financial Services sectors. The underweight was increased in the Food & Beverages sector. The equity allocation remained stable at 97.62% compared to the previous month (97.94%).
